<PERSONAL PROFILE>

Passionate, result-oriented, reliable, team player. The moment he wrote his first lines of code, he knew that he found himself. What he loves about web development is that it helped him in rediscovering and reinvigorating his creativity. The combination of design and logic is what he was looking for. He develops his skills both through self-study and under the supervision of experienced developers. He has managed to slice a few layouts from PSD files, participate in a group project (Jira), code many small and more advanced applications covering a great number of different technologies. He constantly strives to deliver the most effective solution to the challenge.
